Good Governance in Grassroot Sport

- The GGGs project views Good Governance in the light of four key principles:
- - Democracy in grassroots sport organizations means the open and frequent access for members of the organizations to influence the political and strategic direction and leadership of the organization. It entails both the equal right of members to run and vote for political leadership functions, as well as the possibility to debate and influence the key decisions of the organization.
 - Transparency in grassroots sport organizations ensure that members as well as stakeholders know how the organization is operating and have a vehicle to address concerns. In included organizations keeping accounts and ensuring policies and procedures are published.
 - Accountability in grassroots sport organizations means defining clear responsibilities for the different parts of the organization, including the board, the management, staff and volunteers/ voluntary committees.
 - Inclusiveness in the representation of interested stakeholders means that grassroots sport organizations should enable a broad range of groups to be involved in decision making processes. This includes the involvement of underrepresented groups in decisions, the access of these groups to activities, and the inclusion of external stakeholders in decision-making processes.
